Creative ideas and innovative solutions are key ingredients for business success.

Businesses, no matter how large or small, who see and act upon the opportunities and possibilities for change, not only survive in our uncertain and complex world; they flourish.

But then, you probably already know that.

You're aware that creativity is essential; what you might be wondering is why it's not always that easy to achieve.

Following the success of their first event in Lincoln - Mandy Wheeler and Luke Sorba, both award winning writers and directors with many years' experience teaching and coaching creative professionals, are returning with their unique workshop

Delegates will return to their workplace with an improved insight into how to create new ideas, products and services that will bring greater success and renewed energy to their business.

Places are free for Greater Lincolnshire SMEs.
